IMPORTANT

- When installing into carpet, you need to punch or cut away the area of carpet you are about to drill to remove the carpet pile. If you don't, the carpet will wrap around your drill bit and will cause a run in your flooring. If you don't have a carpet punch, you can use a Stanley knife or small chisel.
- It is suited to short pile carpet as you can push the sleeve down into the sub-floor to get good bearing without going too deep into the carpet pile. Long/deep pile carpet is harder and not advised due to the gap created between the door and the sleeve. (Because the door needs to flow over the carpet and the floor sleeve has to push deep into the pile. More than likely this will create a gap of more than 15mm max recommended.)
- We recommend only using 1 packer. This means a 20mm gap under your door will reduce down to less than 15mm which is where you want to be. If your gaps are bigger than that, this system will not be suitable for this situation.
